SHERIFF appointed by His Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales for the Year 1794.

County of Cornwall,	Edward Archer, of Trelaſk, Eſq;

Whitehall, February 5.

A Letter, of which the following is a Copy, was this Day received from the Moſt Noble the Marquis Cornwallis, K. G. by the Right Honorable Henry Dundas, His Majeſty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

DUPLICATE.*

Fort St. George, September 16, 1793.

SIR,

ADVICE of the War with France arrived at Fort St. George on the 2d, and at Fort William on the 11th of June, from Mr. Baldwin, His Majeſty's Conſul at Alexandria; and this Gentleman was ſo anxious to promote the Public Service, and ſo deſirous to enable the Company's Governments to derive every poſſible Advantage from his Communication, that he declared himſelf reſponſible in his public Character for the Truth of the Information, and aſſured them that they might act upon it with Confidence; adding, that all the Britiſh and Dutch Veſſels in the Ports of France had been ſeized.

Upon the Receipt of this Intelligence all the ſmall Factories belonging to the French on the Continent of India, as well as their Ships in our Ports, were taken Poſſeſſion of; and the Government of Fort St. George proceeded immediately to make Preparations for the Attack of the important Fortreſs of Pondicherry, which Place was in full as good a State of Defence as when it was attacked at the Breaking out of the laſt War.

It was reported at Pondicherry that conſiderable Reinforcements were expected from the Iſle of France, under the Convoy of the Sybille of Forty Guns and Three ſmaller Frigates; and we were in ſome Doubt whether Admiral Cornwallis, who blocked up the Place by Sea with the Minerva Frigate and Three Indiamen, would have been able to prevent the Succours from being landed; but the Sybille, which was the only Ship of the Enemy's that appeared during the Siege, went off immediately upon being chaſed by Admiral Cornwallis, and has not ſince been heard of on this Coaſt.

I was very deſirous of giving my perſonal Aſſiſtance in carrying on the laſt Piece of Service that was likely to occur during my Stay in India, and embarked on Board a ſmall French Veſſel, that had been ſeized and armed in Bengal, as ſoon as I could avail myſelf of the Convoy of the Woodcote Indiaman, which had been taking in new Maſts at Calcutta, and without which I did not think I could with Prudence hazard the Voyage, at leaſt while I held the Office of Governor-General. The Triton Indiaman, which Admiral Cornwallis and Sir Charles Oakeley ſent, at my Requeſt, on Account of the Difficulty and Uncertainty in equipping the Woodcote, arrived a few Days before we ſailed, and returned with us.

By the great and meritorious Exertions of the Government of Fort St. George, in tranſporting the Ordnance, Stores, &c. for ſo conſiderable an Undertaking, and thoſe of Colonel Braithwaite, and of the Troops under his Command, in carrying on the Attack, our Batteries were opened againſt the Place ſooner than I expected; and the mutinous and daſtardly Conduct of the Garriſon obliged the Governor to ſurrender the Forts ſeveral Days before my Arrival, and before the Arrival of Five Companies of Bengal Artillery, and Twelve Companies of Laſcars, which I had embarked on Board of the Woodcote and Three other Veſſels, which were likewiſe employed in bringing Rice, on Government's Account, to this Preſidency.

I ſhall beg Leave to refer you, for the Particulars of the Operations againſt Pondicherry, to the incloſed Letter, and the accompanying Papers, which I have received from Colonel Braithwaite, and to his Aide de Camp, Captain Braithwaite, of the 72d Regiment, who will have the Honor of delivering to you my Diſpatches; and who likewiſe carries to England the Colours that were taken from the Enemy.

I have the Honor to be,

SIR,

Your moſt obedient and moſt humble Servant,

CORNWALLIS.

Right Hon. Henry Dundas,
&c. &c. &c.

* The Original ſent by the Scorpion, with Captain Braithwaite, is not yet arrived.

To

To the Moſt Noble Marquis Cornwallis, K. G. Lieutenant-General of His Majeſty's Forces, Commander in Chief in India, &c.

My Lord,

As ſoon as Colonel Floyd, under whoſe Command the Forces moſt contiguous were aſſembled at Wallyabad, was in Force ſufficient, I ordered him to march forward and encamp within a few Miles of Pondicherry; and as I knew all the Ground well, from having ſerved as Second in Command at the laſt Siege, and from having commanded myſelf in Pondicherry ſome Months, I directed him, as his Force increaſed, to occupy the Pagoda of Villenore, lying South-Weſt of the Fort, and the Village of Arian Coupang to the Southward, which would prevent the Garriſon from drawing Supplies from thoſe Parts of the Country from which they had been in the Habit of drawing them chiefly, and to diſtreſs them as much as he could in that Way, but to give Cowl, or Protection, to the Villages in the French Diſtricts that applied for it, and ſhewed any Diſpoſition to aſſiſt the Army; I alſo informed Colonel Floyd of the Ground I intended to take up with the Army, which, having become an entire Foreſt, I directed him to clear, and forwarded a Supply of Tools to him for that Purpoſe.

In the mean Time the Admiral in the Minerva Frigate, reinforced by Three Indiamen, blockaded the Port moſt effectually, and took a Veſſel from the Iſlands, on Board of which were ſome Shot and Shells, and gave Chaſe to the Sybille Frigate, which, however, eſcaped, and never appeared more; the Intention of this Frigate, as we learned from Tranquebar, was to land ſome further Supplies, and an Officer of Artillery with about 150 Men, and the preventing this was a Service of much Importance.

By Means of the Poſt at Arian Coupang, which is near the Mouth of the River, and ſome Boats furniſhed by Mr. Kentworthy, the Reſident at Cuddalore, the Means of a direct and ſpeedy Communication with the Admiral was eſtabliſhed.

While theſe Things were doing our Preparations in the Ordnance Department went briſkly on, and Government took moſt active Meaſures to ſecure ſufficient Supplies, by making large Purchaſes of Rice on the Company's Account, and by calling on his Highneſs the Nabob and the Rajah of Tanjore, both of whom, it is but Juſtice to ſay, ſhewed much Zeal to forward the Service, by ſtriking off all cuſtomary Duties, and holding out every Encouragement to their reſpective Countries to furniſh Supplies to the Army; and as no Tax or Impoſition of any Kind was allowed of in Camp, the Army was abundantly ſupplied.

Having ſeen every Thing ſo completely brought forward, I joined, and took the immediate Command of the Army on the 28th of July. The Grand Park of Artillery from the Mount was but little behind me, great Part of the Stores had arrived in Camp, and large Depots of them well advanced on the Road, and arriving daily.

I immediately rode over the Ground on which I intended to encamp, and had every Reaſon to be ſatisfied with the Progreſs that had been made in clearing it, as it was nearly ſufficiently cleared to admit of our Encampment. On the 30th the Grand Park of Artillery, under the Conduct of Lieutenant-Colonel Giels, halted a few Miles in my Rear; and, on the 31ſt, I moved forward with the Whole, and took up my Ground on the Red Hills.

I then prepared a Letter of Summons to the Governor, Colonel Proſper de Chermont, which I communicated to the Admiral, propoſing that he ſhould alſo ſummon the Place. The Admiral did me the Honor to approve my Summons, and returned it to me, accompanied by One from himſelf, both of which I ſent in with a Flag.

I immediately reconnoitred the South Face of the Fort, which I found greatly improved and much extended ſince I ſaw it before, and that by this Extenſion of it very little Ground was left on that Side to attack it, on Account of the Contiguity of a Branch of the River and ſome Salt Works, and that that Ground was very low, and liable to be flooded if any heavy Rain ſet in; and in this Opinion the Chief Engineer, Lieutenant-Colonel Maule, concurred: I however determined upon a Poſt at a Houſe and Garden on the Bank of the River, about 1,200 Yards from the Fort, which I reſolved immediately to occupy, and in ſome Meaſure fortify, and brought forward to it Major Petrie's Corps, conſiſting of the Flank Companies of His Majeſty's 71ſt and 74th Regiments, which had been ſtationed at Arian Coupang, where I ſtationed a ſmall Party, now fully ſufficient for all our Purpoſes. I cauſed Gabions and Faſcines to be brought down to the new Poſt, ſo that they could be ſeen from the Fort, to deceive them into an Idea that I meant to attack that Side; and it had the Effect, for they brought more Guns to that Face, and kept up a continued Fire, not but they ſtill fired in every Direction where they ſaw any Body, expending ſeveral Shot even at Individuals. I eſtabliſhed Picquets, detached Guards and Patroles of Horſe, which kept up an uninterrupted Communication between theſe Poſts and the Main Picquet in Front of the Army, which was well advanced towards the Villenore Gate of the Fort, under the Cover of a Village and a large Garden Houſe. On the next Day I reconnoitred the North Face of the Fort, which was not ſo ſtrong as when I had ſeen it before, the Works here being much lower, though otherwiſe of the ſame Conſtruction as thoſe we had deſtroyed after the laſt Siege, and I found the Ground contiguous moſt favorable for an Attack, a very light Soil, and ſo high as convinced me it muſt be perfectly dry, even in a Monſoon; and I cauſed Two of the Engineer Corps to embark on a Country Boat, and reconnoitre the Sea Face, and particularly the Stockade and Defences behind the N. E. Angle Baſtion: And every Thing concurring to determine me, I approved, with very little Alteration, a Plan of Attack of the North Face, calculated to work round the N. E. Angle into the Fort, ſuggeſted by the Chief Engineer.

I eſtabliſhed the Engineer's Park in the Rear of the Village of Mootalpettah, on the Bank of a Creek on the Sea Side, under Cover of Major Vigor's Corps, conſiſting of the Flank Companies of the Hon. Company's 1ſt and 2d European Battalions, cauſed the Village to be traverſed and every Thing well ſecured, and from this I extended Picquets, Guards and Patroles as on the Right, to keep up a Communication with the Main Picquet; and thus the Place was completely inveſted from Sea to Sea. The Engineer's Poſt was ſo ſituated as to land every Thing moſt conveniently from the Sea, and was diſtinguiſhed by a St. George's Flag, of which Notice was given to Madras and Cuddalore, and large Quantities of the Rice purchaſed by Government, and great Supplies of Faſcines and Gabions, prepared at Cuddalore by the Activity of Mr. Kentworthy, the Reſident, were ſoon ſent to it, with a Supply of Boats to facilitate their Landing; and to this End the Governor of Madras alſo very politely ſent me a further Supply of Boats.

The Pioneers were put under the Chief Engineer, and all the Artificers and Detachments of working Men

Men furniſhed from the different Corps, to the Amount he deſired, to collect and make up Materials, and the Progreſs was reported to me daily; and on the 10th I found that we might begin, with a Certainty that no Want of Materials could poſſibly prevent us from following up the Attack with Vigour. I therefore reſolved that Night to begin a Battery, on the Weſt Face of the Fort, on a Spot previouſly determined: It was to conſiſt of Eight Twelve-Pounders and Two Eight-Inch Mortars, and at a Diſtance of about 800 Yards; was well calculated to enfilade the Works of the North Face of the Fort, againſt which our Attack was directed, and to keep down the Fire of them; and, under Cover of this Battery, which I expected would be ready in Forty-eight Hours, I meant to break Ground to the Northward: But the Scite of this Battery, pitched upon by the Engineer to anſwer the Purpoſe of a complete Enfilade, was in a low, moiſt Ground, and the Soil an obſtinate, ſtiff Clay; and theſe Cauſes, with the Rains, which unfortunately ſet in at this Time for a few Days, occaſioned the Progreſs to be very ſlow indeed, and gave the Enemy ſo much Time and Leiſure to get the exact Diſtance, that we conſequently ſuffered ſome Loſs. I found it impoſſible to get on with this Battery with any Degree of Celerity; and, as every Thing was prepared to commence the Attack to the Northward, I determined to break Ground on the 12th at Night, and made the neceſſary Arrangements; relieving the Flank Corps from the Stations they had occupied by other Corps, and encamping them on the Left of the Line, ſo as to be moſt ready to ſupport the Attack, and for any Duty; and appointed a ſtrong Detachment, for the Purpoſe of covering, and ordered down Lieutenant-Colonel Maxwell, who commanded the Left Wing, to make the proper Diſpoſitions, and to command the Whole during the Night, but to return to Camp in the Morning, leaving the Whole under the Field Officer of the Trenches. The Diſpoſitions were made with great Judgment, and a very great Work was carried on without Interruption; for though the Enemy ſhewed Blue Lights, and threw ſeveral Fire Balls, probably from hearing ſome Noiſe, it is evident they did not diſcover the Party, as they fired only a few Shot, and thoſe very ill directed; and their main Fire and Attention was ſtill directed againſt the enfilading Battery and the Poſt to the Southward, which they evidently wiſhed to diſlodge, and where I had that Evening made more Shew.

In the Morning, however, they clearly diſcovered our Intention, and began to fire very briſkly from all the Works, on the North Face of the Fort, on our Approaches; and this Fire was continued, and well directed; and we ſuffered ſome Loſs from it, and particularly on the 15th at Night, when the Chief Engineer was killed returning from the Trenches, till the 20th at Noon, when I was at laſt able to open the enfilading Battery, againſt which the Enemy had kept up a very inveterate Fire; but from the Moment that opened, it was viſible their Fire greatly ſlackened, and was ſo ill directed, that every Shot paſſed conſiderably over. They however continued to ply the Works with Shells from Mortars, covered by Epaulments, and their Shells were generally well thrown.

On the 20th, in the Courſe of the Night, (Captain Trapaud, who was now at the Head of the Engineer Department, having carried on the Works with great Spirit) a Battery, which I had ordered to be erected to the Right, and had called the Royal Battery, was compleated to receive Fourteen Twenty-four Pounders, and I meant to have opened the 21ſt; but the Exertions of Lieutenant-Colonel Giels failed, and the Guns could not be got into it that Night. On the 21ſt the Enemy plied it very briſkly with Shells of Fourteen Inches Diameter, and damaged Two of the Merlins and Two of the Platforms; but theſe were expeditiouſly and well repaired in the Courſe of the Night, the Battery rendered very complete, and the Guns got into it; and on the 22d in the Morning, at Day-Break, I went down, and had the Satisfaction to ſee it opened with great Effect. The Enemy's Fire was now quite confuſed, and Gun after Gun was withdrawn, and their Embraſures filled with Sand Bags, and after Nine o'Clock they fired no more, except now and then a Gun from the moſt diſtant Works to the North-Eaſt, and ſome few Shots from the South-Weſt, intended for the enfilading Battery, and they threw but few Shells, while on our Part an inceſſant Fire kept up, and about Noon a Mortar Battery of Four Ten-Inch Mortars, at a ſmall Diſtance to the Left of the Royal Battery, was opened upon the Enemy, and well ſerved. At Half an Hour paſt Four in the Afternoon Flags of Truce were exhibited on all the Saliant Angles of the Fort; upon which Orders were given for our Fire to ceaſe every where, and the Town-Major came out with a Flag, and a ſhort Letter from the Governor, deſiring to capitulate, and to be allowed Twenty-four Hours, to reduce the Terms into Form. In my Reply I refuſed this, and demanded that the Place ſhould be ſurrendered at Diſcretion at Eight the next Morning, till when I would ceaſe to fire, but not to work, and I immediately diſpatched an Expreſs to the Admiral, who was gone to Cuddalore for Water, with Copies of the Governor's Letter to me and my Reply, which the Admiral did me the Honor to approve. In the Night a Deputation came to me from the Fort of the Second in Command, Colonel Toufreville, and the Town-Major, who brought a ſecond Letter from the Governor, and they ſtated the great Alarm that my Anſwer had occaſioned, and the univerſal Dread of all Claſſes of People of the Conſequences of a Surrender at Diſcretion, and conjured me to abate ſomewhat of the Rigour of that Determination, and hold out ſome Aſſurance of Security for Life and private Property. Upon this I thought it neceſſary to adviſe with Colonel Floyd and Lieutenant-Colonel Maxwell, whom I ſent for, and finally dictated thoſe Terms upon which the Place ſurrendered the next Day to Colonel Floyd and Lieutenant-Colonel Maxwell, who, with Detachments of Cavalry, Artillery and Flank Companies from every Corps in the Lines, entered the Place by the Villenore and the Madras Gates. They were punctually adhered to by the French Governor, ſo far as he was able. The Place was ſurrendered and evacuated by all the Troops, but they did not march out in that Order, or under that Diſcipline, I had preſcribed; indeed they were all much intoxicated; and the Governor had ſent to preſs forward the Arrival of our Troops, leſt the People in this State ſhould again have Recourſe to their Arms and commit ſome Outrages, and our Troops haſtened their March; but nothing of the Kind happened, and great Part ſurrendered themſelves peaceably, without the Gate, to the Party ordered to conduct them to Arian Coupang, and the reſt were ſoon collected and ſent thither. Much Anarchy and Confuſion ſeem to have prevailed in the Place, and the various Departments appear to have been latterly not ſubject to much Method. I have the Honor to incloſe your Lordſhip a Copy of a Return of the Strength of the Garriſon at the Time it ſurrendered, ſigned by the Governor. This comprehends the Whole, except the the Gardes Nationales, compoſed of the Inhabitants, armed, cloathed and diſciplined, and which amounted, I am told, to between Two and Three Hundred. Alſo Copy of a Liſt of the Ordnance and Stores collected by our Deputy Commiſſary-General, ſigned by himſelf; but ſome trifling Articles have ſince been found, and many Cheſts of Small Arms; and more are ſtill expected to be found. The Colours of our 12th Native Battalion, which garriſoned Cuddalore when it was taken laſt War by the French, have been found in the Arſenal; and theſe I mean to return to that Battalion: Alſo a Return by the Caſualties in the Army I had the Honor to command. The Loſs on the Side of the Enemy was very trifling; for, from the Time our Fire opened there appeared to have been but few People on the Works.

I cannot more fully or ſtrongly expreſs my Sentiments to your Lordſhip, with regard to the Army I had the Honor to command, than by repeating, what I iſſued in Orders on the Surrender of the Place, which I requeſt Leave to quote to your Lordſhip: "To thank Corps or Individuals, in an Army ſo "fully entitled to his warmeſt Thanks and Appro-"bation, cannot be attempted: He thanks and ap-"proves the Whole with all his Heart, and will not "fail to ſpeak theſe his Sentiments to his Superiors."

To your Lordſhip, however, it is unneceſſary, as you are ſo well acquainted with the Characters which compoſed this Army, the Zeal, Unanimity, and Subordination, has been ſuch as muſt lead to Succeſs.

This Packet will be preſented to your Lordſhip by Captain Braithwaite, my Firſt Aide de Camp, who has had the Honor to ſerve under your Lordſhip, and whom I beg Leave to recommend to your Lordſhip's Patronage.

I have the Honor to remain,
With the greateſt Reſpect, &c. &c. &c.
